Growing Amidst the Challenges

Trans-European Division
Quinquennial Education Convention
Hotel Izvor
Serbia
July 26-30, 2023
Growing healthy relationships

KAREN HOLFORD
MA ED PSYCH
MSC SYSTEMIC PSYCHOTHERAPY
The best rule for life

Jesus replied: ‘Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. This is the first and greatest commandment.

And the second is like it. Love your neighbour as yourself. All the Laws and the Prophets hang on these two commandments.

Matthew 22:36-40 NIV.
When we focus on trying to fix each other’s brokenness... we damage relationships.
When we focus on taking away aloneness, and let God deal with each of our brokenness, He can grow us in His own loving time and way.
Being channels of God’s love to our students

We can help our students learn how to love God and others through our interactions with them.
Everything we do in a relationship either weakens it or strengthens it.
When our students feel safe and cared for:

- Their brains are bathed in the hormone oxytocin.
- This enables them to access their pre-frontal cortex and make higher level decisions.
- They will feel more relaxed, and this will help them to be open to new learning.
- They learn how to listen to others and show empathy.
- They learn good relationship skills from our modelling.
- They are less likely to argue with us and with each other.
We feel cared for
By God and others

Oxytocin/dopamine release in self
Better ability to listen, show empathy, and be compassionate

Others have a better ability to express and process their emotions and care
Oxytocin/dopamine release in others
Helps us to care better for others

Compassion cycle
We don’t feel cared for by God and others

...blocking their ability to listen, show empathy, and be compassionate

Cortisol and adrenaline are released...
(stress hormones)

Cortisol and adrenaline are released in others

...blocking our ability to listen, show empathy, and be compassionate

We hurt others by our words and actions

Distress cycle
Care/Connection

Accepted
Seen and heard
Cared for/loved
Appreciated
Comforted
Respected
Encouraged
Protected
Valued
Supported

Photo by Karen
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Care/Connection</th>
<th>Lonely/disconnected</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Accepted</td>
<td>Rejected</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seen and heard</td>
<td>Ignored</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cared for/loved</td>
<td>Hurt</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Appreciated</td>
<td>Judged</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Comforted</td>
<td>Criticized</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Respected</td>
<td>Shamed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Encouraged</td>
<td>Discouraged</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Protected</td>
<td>Afraid</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Valued</td>
<td>Unwanted</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supported</td>
<td>Abandoned</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Acceptance

Being welcomed and loved even we’ve messed up

Accept one another just as Christ has accepted you. Romans 15:7 NIV
Acceptance

• Students are learning – they will make mistakes.
• How we respond to their mistakes makes a big difference to their ability to learn.
• Point out what they have done well.
• Let them know that their mistakes do not change your relationship with them.
• Opportunities to show grace and forgiveness and teach that God accepts them no matter what.
• If you struggle to accept a student – be curious about why it is difficult for you.
Focused Attention

Being seen and heard by others

...not looking to your own interests, but each of you to the interests of the others.

Phil. 2:4 NIV
Focused Attention

• Give warm, smiling eye contact.
• Sum up what they say, to show you are really listening to them, rather than just nodding.
• Take time to get to know your students, and the details of their lives. What are they best at, what do they enjoy the most?
• How happy are they? What is happening in their family context? If they are sad, anxious and afraid it will be hard for them to learn.
• Take a few moments to share in an activity that they really enjoy.
Being cared for/loved

Be kind and compassionate to one another, Ephesians 4:32 NIV
Being cared for/loved

- Greet students warmly and kindly at the beginning of the day.
- Ask how they are. Listen if they are clearly struggling with something.
- Smile often.
- Use a warm and kind/gentle voice.
- Do or say something kind to your students as often as you can manage.
- Bring simple treats occasionally.
- Encourage them to care for each other.
- Kind classrooms nurture learning.
Thanking each other

I thank my God every time I remember you.

Phil. 1:3 NIV
Appreciation

- I really appreciated it when you...
- Thank you so much for...
- Class appreciation board.
- Make/buy fun, printed thank you notes that you can give out freely.
- Pop a surprise thank you note into their bag, book, desk, etc.
- The more appreciation in the classroom, the less conflict...
Comfort

Beingsoothishthen
lifelis tough and painful

Mournwiththosewhomourn.
Romans 12:15 NIV
Comforting students

- Listen to their story
- Know what comforts your students: hugs, prayer, talking, space to think and recover, walk, fun distraction, etc.
- Comfort menu
Respect

Being treated with dignity and fairness

Honour one another above yourselves.
Romans 12:10 NIV

Photo by Karen
Respect

- Listen carefully to your students' concerns.
- Avoid shaming them.
- Take them seriously.
- Invite their ideas and opinions.
- Asking before using other people's things or making plans that involve them.

Photo by Karen
Encouragement

Supporting students towards their personal goals

Cheering them on

Encourage one another and build each other up, just as in fact you are doing. 1 Thess. 5:11 NIV
Encouragement

- Know some of your students’ short and long term goals. Help them to identify them.
- Affirm/encourage effort rather than achievement.
- I can see that you are taking time to get things just right.
- I really admire your persistence!
- Well done for finishing that!
Security

Helping students to feel safe from risk, harm and shame

Perfect love casts out fear. 1 John 4:18 NIV

Photo by Karen
Be mindful of each student’s personality, and how they are wired.

Provide a range of ways for students to respond in class. Writing on sticky notes and placing them on a wall can help introverted students to feel safe enough to make contributions.

Learn how to make a classroom a safe place for introverts, children with high sensitivity and neurodiversity.

Make it OK to make mistakes and learn from them.
Being valued

Showing or telling each student how special they are to you and to God

You are my Son, whom I love, with you I am well-pleased.
Mark 1:11 NIV
Being Valued

- Tell students that they are special and important to you, in simple, fun or creative ways.
- Create photos and tangible signs of being special.
- Celebrate their special moments!
Support

Helping students with challenging tasks

Bear one another’s burdens. Galatians 6:2 NIV
Support and help

- Anticipate when help might be needed and be ready and willing to be involved.
- “I have 10 minutes – what’s the most helpful thing I can do for you?”
- Ask what you can do to help them this week.
- Ask what they are most struggling with and coach them through a task.
- Invite older children/volunteers help younger students – they will learn by teaching.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>What are your top 3 relational needs?</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Comfort</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Respect</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acceptance</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Encouragement</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Affection</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Security</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Appreciation</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Being Valued</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Attention</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Support</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Photo by Aaron Burden on Unsplash
Love often anticipates the need and meets the need before the other person realises they have it...

While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us...
Three danger signs:
1. Self-centredness
2. Self-reliance
3. Self-condemnation
Self-centredness

My needs are more important than your needs.
So you can give to me, but I won’t give anything back...
Self-Reliance

I don’t need any of those relational things from you – If I want them I can get them myself.
Self-condemnation

I would like to feel more cared for, but I don’t think I really deserve it – so if you’re nice to me I will just feel guilty.
The Prodigal Son

Photo by Slavcho Malezanov on Unsplash
Which relational needs did the father meet, and how?

- Comfort
- Acceptance
- Affection
- Appreciation
- Attention
- Respect
- Encouragement
- Security
- Specialness
- Support

Photo by Nathan Anderson on Unsplash
Being grumpy or “out of sorts” = being hungry for relational connection...

What am I most hungry for?
Recognise your own needs in a situation.

Wonder what other people may be needing. Ask if you are not sure.

Know that every time you meet someone’s need you are strengthening the relationship.

Find comfortable ways to let people know what you need.

Listen for clues to their needs in what they are saying and doing.

How is this useful?
When babies’ and children’s love needs are not met:

They experience neglect, pain, distress, sadness, aloneness, abuse.

- This leads to unhealthy thoughts – I’m not important, what’s wrong with me? Maybe if I try harder, they will love me...
- Leading to negative emotions – unworthy, distressed, bitter, hurt, sad, lonely...
- Leading to unhealthy behaviours – addictions, manipulation, bullying, perfectionism, eating disorders...
- Leading to poorer outcomes – less successful relationships, poor sense of self, lower achievers, more likelihood of mental illness, etc.
When babies’ and children’s love needs are met...

- They have healthy thoughts – I am loved, I am special to others, I can do it...
- Leading to positive emotions – valued, confident, safe, thankful...
- Leading to healthy behaviours – kind, helpful, considerate, generous, striving for excellence...
- Leading to positive lives and relationships – happier relationships, growing character, good sense of self, caring of others, etc.
I feel like giving up.
I hate maths
I don’t want to go to school ever again!
I can’t believe you took my pen without asking me!
Do you like being my teacher?
Stop asking me questions in front of the whole class...
Lara left a mean message on my desk
No one in the class likes me...
I’m tired of being the only person who ever tidies up!
No one will every want to speak to me again.
Prayer
And this is my prayer: that your love may abound more and more in knowledge and depth of insight, so that you may be able to discern what is best and may be pure and blameless for the day of Christ, filled with the fruit of righteousness that comes through Jesus Christ - to the glory and praise of God.

Phil 1:9-11
Any Questions?